1908 Keswick 2008

An occasion for
Celebration and Discovery

Keswick from Lattrigg Hill

Tuesday 17 June to Friday 20 June
The Friends Meeting House
Keswick

Initiatives of Change is rooted in an event in Keswick in 1908. It was in this northern English town that Frank Buchman faced the resentment he had towards six men, and where he wrote to each, apologising for nursing ill-will towards them. It was a spiritual experience of release from bitterness in crucial relationships that altered the course of his life and eventually led to the world-wide movement now known as Initiatives of Change.

To mark this anniversary, there will be an informal gathering in Keswick to reflect on the breadth and depth of the work which developed from Buchman's original experience - and to explore the future. This gathering will provide an opportunity to consider and acknowledge the power of God's Spirit to change people. A group of young people committed to Initiatives of Change will come to Keswick to start a journey through Europe exploring the development of the movement over the last 100 years. This will be an opportunity to meet with them and give them a good send off!

Keswick is a centre for the northern lakes and occupies a beautiful setting on the shores of Lake Derwentwater, surrounded by hills and woodland. It is a good centre for walking and hill climbing and provided the weather is favourable there will be ample opportunity to explore the area as part of the experience.
